The Real Taste of Marlborough

The unforgiving Hell's Gate vineyard in Marlborough was the birthplace for Wild South. We had to reclaim the land from the wild; we moved endless river rocks to make the vineyard accessible and productive. It's a classic Marlborough vineyard of stones and overlaying silts, with a daily temperature change during harvest of over 50 degrees Fahrenheit. The warm days produce lush fruit and the cold nights bright acidity. Our Hammond Estate vineyard is nearby, sitting on a terrace overlooking the Wairau River. To complement the estate vineyards, the Wild South winemaking team works closely with selected growers to source additional premium fruit. This ensures consistency of quality and style from vintage to vintage.

Wild South wines show all the energy and spirit of their birth. Fresh, lively and vibrant, they're a pure reflection of Marlborough. New Zealand Sustainable Winegrowing Certified.

Wild South Sauvignon Blanc

4 Stars & Best Buy, Cuisine Magazine ('12);
89 points & Best Buy, Beverage Tasting Institute ('12).

"The spicy melon, pear, grapefruit and green apple notes are intense and juicy, with traces of white flowers on the finish. 87 points."

-Wine Spectator ('12).

Wild South Pinot Noir

90 points, International Wine Review ('13):

"Wine to Watch," American Wine Society's Wine Journal ('12):
"Colorful and tantalizing with its cherry, cola, earthy, cinnamon and tea spice scents and flavors gliding smoothly across the palate. This wine is bright and polished with a refined structure. The dazzling acidity keeps the wine dancing on the palate through the satisfying finish that leaves you wanting more."
